Roderick Theater.
Manager, Dr. J. R. Roderick, has arranged a bill for Monday and Tuesday which is of great strength. The feature pictures are "A Girl Spy" and "The Girl in the Red Coat", both of which are 12-reel times would do for her country, and how she managed to get her hands on the papers and bring them safe back to the captain of the federal army; with the New Footman as the second feature, a very funny comedy picture, showing the troubles of a new footman. Modern Algeria and The Romance of Old Mexico, with a picture at last, finishes a well balanced moving picture performance. Also Mr. Dudley can be heard in illustrated songs.

BREED THEATER.

Hunting Big Game in Africa, Feature Motion Picture.
A picture with a thrill for every moment is to be shown at the Breed Theater this week under the title of "Hunting Big Game in Africa", showing, as it does, all the peculiar customs in the open in the most thrilling manner, giving one the benefit of a hunting trip to this dangerous region, with the danger eliminated. The views are taken directly upon the scene, and the most famous citizen is now traversing. A picture of great beauty is the one called "Glorious Sunset", being a series of the most gorgeous of sunsets, all appropriately tinted. Other fine pictures are "Eloping With Anny", "Two Men and a Cradle", "The Blind Man of Jerusalem", "For Her Country's Sake", and the "Infernal Machine". Madam Morelle will sing the famous "Spies in the Night", and Mr. DeLaney singing the dainty Irish ditty, "Under the Irish Moon", and Miss Bradley rendering the pretty little song, "You're Just the Boy for Me."

LINCOLN PARK.

Vaudeville This Week.
There is a treat in store this week for the patrons of Lincoln Park. Five acts are on the programme. The Vynos have an exceedingly novel musical act, for they get sweet strains out of all the articles familiarly found in a barnyard. Their specialty has been warmly received wherever it has been presented.
Hawley and Baden have a comedy roller skating stunt which is clever and amusing. Hawley takes some queer tumbles, and Baden is a good clown.
Chas. Mac Hammer, a young woman of attractive stage appearance and winning personality, will be heard in solo. She has a beautiful voice of fine range and compass and is a favorite vocalist.
Al H. Burton sings, dances, tells stories and makes himself a thorough entertaining good fellow with his audience.
Leonard Whiting & Co. present "Duffy's Finish", a very laughable comedy in one act, declared to be one of the best laugh producing hits of the vaudeville stage.
Sunday afternoon's concert, to which no admission was charged, drew a good company from the city. The Bradley trio sang "Good-Bye, Mary," and Musical Lord and his xylophone were loudly applauded. He played the overture from "William Tell" with much spirit.
There will be evening performances and afternoon matinees every day this week, with dancing, afternoon and evening. The park is a cool, restful and inviting spot. More and more people are showing their appreciation of its attractions.

Mr. Amalgam, a prominent Italian contractor in Alexandria, informed the Egyptian Gazette that he asked the Ottoman and Egyptian governments to allow him to make plans for a railway line by way of El Arish to Jaffa. The negotiations are in charge of Mr. Ambrose, the engineer of the firm. The idea is that the line after crossing the Suez canal, should run along the coast to the frontier at El Arish and then on to its terminus at Jaffa, where it would connect with the Jerusalem railway.

"Say, pat." "Well, my son." "Ain't there no sure cure for snakebite except whiskey?" "What makes you ask so many fool questions? Who cares whether there is or not?"—Cleveland Leader.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Preserve the Landmarks.

Mr. Editor:—Many of us who thought we knew something of the notable dwellings and sites of this ancient town are reminded of the limited extent of our knowledge by the admirable work of the historical committee of the 250th anniversary. The landmarks they have placed upon dwellings and trees brings to our eyes the most enthusiastic comment, not only from transient guests but from many a resident citizen. They are most valuable object lessons in local history which it seems as if we could ill spare.

It would not be surprising if the owners of some of the houses or trees on which these terra littora biographies have been placed should regard them as, to a certain extent, a defacement of their premises. They may, however, confidently feel that the general public do not so regard them and would be profoundly grateful if they could be allowed to remain and so make Norwich more interesting than ever before, alike to strangers and citizens.

WM. A. AIKEN.
Norwich, July 10, 1930.

Early Customs.

Mr. Editor:—In the early years of the Norwich and Worcester railroad there were two curious customs which I recall. Five minutes before the trains were to start the station agent (a colored man named James Avery) used to ring a large bell on top of a tower twenty feet tall as a signal to delinquents to hurry up! This custom was retained as late as 1852.

It was customary to give to each locomotive the name of a prominent director of the road; and I will recall seeing the old wood-consuming engines go puffing by (under the bridges in the rear of Dr. Farnsworth's and Captain Whiting's residences in Chelsea), bearing the names of Joel White, John P. Rockwell, Newton Perkins, etc.

Trains running to Albany's Point to connect with boat for New York stopped on the covered bridge across the Shetucket to discharge and take on passengers. There was a waiting room below the light of steps, but no station platform other than the covered bridge.

This colored man Avery, above referred to, left the railroad company and took a position as a trusted employee in the office of the Illinois Central Railway company in New York. His skin was so intensely black that it was remarked by his employer one day: "We shall have to put a chalk mark on Avery to distinguish him from the rest of the staff."

SKIN ERUPTION CURED

Was So Sore, Irritating and Painful that Little Sufferer Could Not Sleep—Scratched Constantly.

CUTICURA'S EFFICACY PROVEN

"When about two and a half years old my daughter broke out on her hips and the upper parts of her legs with a very irritating and painful eruption. It began in October; the first I noticed was a little red surface and a constant desire on her part to scratch her limbs. She could not sleep and the eruptions got sore, and yellow water came out of them. I had two doctors treat her, but she grew worse under their treatment. Then I bought the Cuticura Remedies and only used them two weeks when she was entirely well. This was in February. She has never had another rough place on her skin, and is now fourteen years old."—Mrs. R. R. Whitaker, Winchester, Tenn., Sept. 22, 1908.
